Loose diamonds shimmy between layers of sapphire crystal in Chopard's Happy Precious ring and earrings.

Chopard's Happy Diamonds design liberates the stones from traditional metal prongs and leaves them to spin between two clear sapphire crystal discs. It's a playful concept that Chopard's co-president and artistic director, Caroline Scheufele, frequently updates for new jewelry and timepieces, such as the Happy Precious earrings and ring, shown. Here, the rolling stones are surrounded by lace-like patterns of sapphires and diamonds. For details see Sources, page 98.
